

Enterprise Recon CentOS 7 Support Deprecation Notice, October 2023

As we continue to bring new features and improve performance of our products, we are retiring support for end-of-life systems and platforms in future releases.

We will be retiring support for CentOS 7, the current host operating system for Enterprise Recon, from July 2024.

CentOS 7 will reach end-of-life in June 2024, and this change ensures that Enterprise Recon customers can maintain a secure and supported operating environment without the risks associated with outdated systems.

To facilitate this change, we will be releasing Enterprise Recon 2.9.1 later this year offering two deployment options:

1. As an appliance running on Oracle Linux 8
2. As an RPM software package for installation on Red Hat Enterprise Linux (RHEL) 8.6 / 8.8 (LTS) servers

We recognize that platform upgrades are not always easy, and that is why we are letting you know about this change now. We will provide more detailed guidance that you can share with your customers explaining how to migrate existing Enterprise Recon installations shortly.

If you have any queries or concerns related to this announcement, please contact us at support@groundlabs.com.