

Enterprise Recon 2.11.1 Now Available

End of support for CentOS 7 master servers

The latest version of Enterprise Recon is now available. This release includes improved data types and important security enhancements.

Key features of Enterprise Recon 2.11.1

The key features introduced in Enterprise Recon 2.11.1 include:

- New and improved data types: Updates include the enhancements to Australian driver license numbers, and organisation and individual healthcare identifiers. Searches for Belgian National Number data types now support mixed separators.
- Important security enhancements: Updates to third-party libraries and client libraries are included in this release to ensure the continued security of the application.

Early access features now available

Customers can request early access to the following Early Access features by contacting the Ground Labs Support Team:

- Data discovery support for Apache Hive and Cloudera Hive database targets

Important changes in Enterprise Recon 2.11.1

Upgrading to Enterprise Recon 2.11.1 is a one-way process

Enterprise Recon 2.11.1 ends support for CentOS 7 master servers. This update also introduces changes to some data sets, storage formats and master server components for enhanced performance and efficiency. As a result, this update cannot be reversed once applied. For support, please contact support@groundlabs.com.

Customers can download Enterprise Recon 2.11.1 now from the Ground Labs Services Portal.

For more information about the latest update, full release notes are included in the Enterprise Recon 2.11.1 User Guide.